Announcing Feisty Deeds: Historical Fictions of Daring Women

Tales of ordinary women placed in extraordinary circumstances... brimming with personal triumphs!

“For too long, women have been reduced to footnotes in our history texts, or worse, eliminated altogether...Feisty Deeds illuminates...women who refuse to accept the rules...”
—Aimie K. Runyan, International Bestselling author of A Bakery in Paris, Lavender and Sage and The School for German Brides

The stories in Feisty Deeds span six centuries and feature ordinary women of all ages and occupations who find themselves in situations that call for resistance, rebellion, stealth, or confrontation. The stories demonstrate a multitude of strategies that women employ to better their lives and those of others around them.

“...potent with modern and historical wisdom...perfectly curated...resulting in a captivating, thought-provoking, and undeniably inspiring collection.” —Self Publishing Review

“Extraordinarily impressive...Twenty-three authors take readers on captivating...personal journeys of self-discovery, unexpected challenges, and tests of character. An outstanding collection that showcases ordinary women’s struggles...the protagonists in these pages grapple with their inner demons while navigating a world full of uncertainty and possibility.”
—The Prairies Book Review

“Purposeful, powerful and inspiring...” —Goodreads Review

“...in turns touching, humorous, infuriating, and uplifting.” —NetGalley Review

The Feisty Deeds editors are members of the Women’s Fiction Writers Association and the WFWA historical fiction affinity group. Christy Matheson Forrest, Carolyn Korsmeyer, Elaine Aucoin Schroller, Kay Smith-Blum, and Kimberly Sullivan make their homes on two continents, and their weekly Zoom conversations during the development of this anthology spanned nine time zones.

Revenues from the first annual volume of Feisty Deeds will be donated to the WFWA Scholarship Fund. This fund provides resources to develop craft and foster successful careers.
